HARLEY BEARD, 19, CAPTURED IN CHICAGO, FOLLOWING TRIPLE MURDER AT IRONTON, O.

SLEW VICTIMS WITH A CLUB

Lad Coolly Tells of Killing Mother. Son and Daughter on a Farm and Attempting to Hide at His Sister's Home in Chicago.

Chicago,-Harley Beard, 19, a farmis alleged by them to have confessed of killing two women and a man on a farm near Ironton, O. The victims are Mrs. Matilda Massie, 75; her son, Robert, 45, and her daughter, Mary, 42, ercise for its best development and Beard, the police say, claims he health. For this reason turn the mare killed Massie with a club in an alterand the foal in the pasture as often cation because he feared Massie was as possible. about to strike him with an ax. Massie's sister and mother were beaten to interfere with his escape. The story told by Beard, according to the police, is as follows:

"Bob got up about 4 o'clock in the morning to go to town and buy some furniture. I help him hitch up.

"When Bob came home, Mary told him that I had come in her room. I didn't know she had told him that until supper time. Then Bob came up to me and laid an ax against my cheek and said: 'If you ever annoy my sister again I'll cut your head off.' I told him that I didn't annoy his sis-

"Bob turned around and started toward me. He raised the ax and I thought he was going to hit me. I had a long stake in my hand which I had been using in baling hay. It had a heavy iron ring in one end. I hit him on the head with the stake.

"Mary came out, and when she saw Bob on the ground she jumped at me. children to attend school up to a cer I hit her on the head. Then the old lady came and I hit her, too.

"I thought I saw the old lady move at every session. They may be "ex- a little, so I went and got Bob's razor and cut her head off. Then I cut ents, and we herewith present some Mary's head off. But I didn't look at Bob after I hit him the first time. I came to my sister's house in Chicago to get away, but you arrested me."

Capt. Coughlin received word from the sheriff at Ironton suggesting that Beard might be found at the home of his sister here. Two detectives were sent. Beard was captured after a short chase.

Capt. Coughlin is investigating the Wichita, Kan., and southhern Illinois farm murders to see if Beard was in the locality.

EXERCISE NEEDED BY COLT

Reep the Youngster Growing From Start to Finish, Keeping It Fet and Thrifty.

While the foal is young and the mare is at work it is best to leave the foal in the stable. See that the mare is not too hot when she is left in the stall at noon and night for the foal to take nourishment.

As soon as the foal begins to nibble at dry feed and grass encourage it in eating by placing feed within reach. While the mare is away let it have Chicago.—Harley Beard, 19, a farm-hand, arrested by the Chicago police, or pasture is fenced so that the young animal will not injure itself. Barbed Whenever possible let the foal follow the mare in the field, since the death because he thought they might exercise and feed it will secure will help it to grow and become strong.

The horse, by nature, likes the open air and free range. When the colt is weaned in the fall give it the range of a good pasture with a feed of cats or some other muscle or bone-forming foods morning and evening. Shelter it in bad weather, but keep it in the open pasture as much as possible in good weather, even in the winter. It will not mind the cold if it is dry and has all it wants to eat. Its future strength and durability will depend to a large extent upon its muscular exercise in the open air and sunlight. Never let it be hungry. The more and better feed you give the colt and the faster you make it grow the more clear money it will make on the feeds and labor given it. Keep the young colt growing rapidly from start to finish. Never let it become poor and stunted, but keep it fat and thrifty. Feed it oats, corn, wheat bran, shorts, a little oil meal and good clover and other hay.

GOOD RETURNS FROM SHEEP

Will Prove Desirable Addition to the Average Farm-Do Not Stock Up Heavily at Start.

A few sheep on the average farm, if cared for properly, will give good financial returns. A person starting into the sheep business should not stock up heavily until he has learned ing is an uncertain business for the man who knows little about it.

Every Farmer Should Have a Few

Sheep are sometimes called the plant-scavangers of the farm. They will thrive on more kinds of weeds than will any other domestic animals. They may be used for cleaning up weedy corn fields or small corners and waste patches of grass and weeds.

Sheep growing has its drawbacks. Coyotes and dogs cause sheep growers much trouble in some localities. To make a success of growing sheep you must give them a great deal of attention, especially at lambing time. The fences ordinarily found on farms are not tight enough to keep the sheep from going where they please.

ERADICATION OF PIG WORMS

Formula Given Out by Veterinary College at Ames, Ia.—Does Not Affect the Eggs.

The veterinary college at Ames. Is., has announced the following formula for the eradication of worms in pigs: Santonin, one grain per thirty to eighty-pound shoats; areca nut, onehalf grain per pound live weight; four grains santonin is the maximum dose for a large hog. Keep the hogs off feed for 24 hours. Mix enough of the medicine in a thin slop for 20 hogs. Feed in a clean trough. Repeat treatment in 30 days, as eggs of worms in the intestines will not be affected by this treatment and a new crop of worms will result."
